

D. H. Lawrence	The Trespasser By D. H. Lawrence (1885-1930) Brief Encounter meets Tristan und Isolde – on the Isle of Wight, under a vast sky flord with stars. The consequence is tragic indeed for one of the parties, Siegmund, when he sacrifices family life for a few days' transcendent rapture. His lover, the self-contained Helena, is strong enough to bear a return to the scruffy suburbs. Redemption of a kind is granted to the deserted wife, Beatrice. But between these robust Lawrentian women Siegmund is cancelled out. His love-death is no cosmic swoon but a sordid exit in an unkempt box-room. In this very British romance, there is no earthly escape from outworn attachments and life's deadening routine... (Summary by Martin Geeson) Read by Martin Geeson; total running time: 10:40:35. Dedicated Proof-Listener: Stav Nisser. Meta-Coordinator/Cataloging: Ruth Golding. This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org. Cover picture by Pennie Gobson (http://www.publicdomainpictures.net/view-image.php?image=16178&picture=abstract-triangles). Cover design by Janette Brown. This design is in the public domain.	The Trespasser
----------------	---	----------------

The Trespasser

D. H. Lawrence